Re: Revised Prospect Development/Qualification (PDQ) Project for Taiwan:
DCI Workplan/Letter of Agreement (August 1-December 31, 2004)

Dear Mr. Ni:

Based upon our recent meeting in DCI's offices here in New York, Development Counsellors International (DCI) and its partner Whittaker Associates are pleased to present the following workplan.

These recommendations emerge from a combined 60 years of uniquely specialized experience in "marketing places" and work with over 300 economic development organizations across the world.

I. OVERVIEW

Let's start with a very brief summary of the key objectives of your organization in the next five months:

- A ministerial visit is planned for the fall (most likely in late October or early November). In conjunction with this visit, the planning and implementation of a successful investment seminar in New York City is important.

- In addition, you would like to balance the seminar approach with a proactive approach to "best bet" companies who may now be considering investment in Asia. Specifically, you are seeking a consulting firm who can identify and arrange a series of face-to-face meetings with prospective investors in Taiwan.

You have a number of advantages in facing this challenge. For U.S. companies considering a wide spectrum of Asian markets, Taiwan has a proven track record in manufacturing productivity rates, workforce, and bottom-line operating costs.

But you face intense competition from a range of other Asian countries who are aggressively courting US investment. Which brings us to a key finding of DCI's survey of 250+ North American executives with site selection responsibilities. When asked to rank the effectiveness of eight marketing techniques commonly used as a means of reaching corporate leaders considering a new site locations, "planned visits to corporate executives" received the highest ranking among all categories. An executive summary of "Winning Strategies in Economic Development Marketing" is provided in Appendix A.

Simply put, the Prospect Development/Qualification (PDQ) program developed by DCI seeks to significantly advance both the quality and quantity of proactive "planned visits to corporate executives" in the assigned four-state region. Conceptually, the basic steps are indicated below:

- Defining specific target industries...including both traditional manufacturing industries and new targets such as biotechnology.

- Developing a list of "suspects"...DCI and it's database partner Whittaker Associates would identify 250 companies in the New York/New Jersey/Connecticut/Pennsylvania region that fit within these target industries and are exhibiting external changes that may precipitate a decision to relocate, expand or consolidate.

- Narrowing the "suspect" list to an assembly of qualified prospects...based upon telephone contact with these initial "suspects", the list would be narrowed dramatically to detect corporations with immediate and future business interests in Asian expansion.

- Bring Taiwan "face-to-face" with these qualified prospects... Finally, we would seek to arrange two investment seminars as well as a series of face-to-face appointments at these corporations as well as the increasingly important "location advisors" who assist such companies.

II. PROSPECT DEVELOPMENT/QUALIFICATION (PDQ) PROGRAM FOR TAIWAN

The following activities would be the major elements of DCI's proposed investment attraction program for Taiwan:

A. Defining a "Target Company" Profile

In our experience, the simplest way to broadly identify the "best bet" prospective investors for Taiwan is to carefully analyze the types of companies and industries that have invested in Taiwan in the past. We would balance by analyzing "new industries" that would appear particularly well suited to Taiwan's business climate.

Within the program's first month, the objective would be to look closely at the patterns of industrial location and expansion activity of U.S. companies in Taiwan in order to develop a target company profile. The target company analysis will be used to direct the research function.

> OBJECTIVE: Within the program's first month, define a "target company" profile, which will drive the prospecting effort.

B. Identifying a "Smart List" of the Right Target Companies on a Continuing Basis

Companies relocate or expand as a result of changes within the company and/or in its external business environment. Surveys of the precipitating causes of firms' decisions to relocate, expand or consolidate provide some insight into this decision-making process:

Internal Events Preceding a Site Location Change

1. processes (i.e., re-engineering);
2. products (i.e., new products);
3. strategies (i.e., competing in time);
4. demand for the companies' products or services (i.e., sales);
5. ownership (i.e., sale, merger or acquisition); and
6. leadership (i.e., chief executive officer).

External Events Preceding a Site Location Change

1. industry trends (i.e., outsourcing);
2. consumer trends (i.e., recycling);
3. technology (i.e., information management);
4. government regulations (i.e., environmental); and
5. relationships with customers /suppliers (i.e., "just-in-time" delivery).

The key to understanding and predicting corporate relocation, expansion, or consolidation is the monitoring of corporate events. This is precisely the task which DCI's partner, Whittaker and Associates, has played for a wide range of economic development organizations since 1981.

An estimated 250 companies in the assigned region will be identified within the target industries that have an increased probability to relocate, consolidate, or expand in Asia. CD-ROM and on-line computer databases will be used to select the companies that fit the target company profile and that are experiencing changes that have been found to have a high correlation with a company's decision to relocate or expand operations. A database containing key contact information and business intelligence on each target company will be compiled.

> OBJECTIVE: Identify an estimated 250 "target companies" for prospect qualification and provide a complete and detailed database of the target companies with their contact person, address, phone number, fax number and correspondence history

C. Narrowing the "Smart List" to North American Companies with a Genuine Interest in Asian Expansion

Using a variety of investigation techniques (on-line research, mail communication w/fax-back responses, telephone surveys), DCI will significantly narrow the list of initial suspects to identify North American corporations with immediate and future expansion interests in Asia. As no two companies are alike, such research is an ongoing and highly detailed process that will demand substantial DCI resources.

In the course of our research we will not only identify the "right" companies but also the "right" contacts within these companies – individuals with direct site location responsibilities. The assignment of this responsibility differs within each corporation but could be the role of the CEO/President, Director of Manufacturing, CFO or Director of International Operations.

> OBJECTIVE: Identify specific companies with a clear interest in Asian/Taiwan investment.

D. "Roundtable" Investment Seminar for Taiwan in October or November 2004

The "investment seminar" approach seeks to bring together a number of interested companies and their advisors for a group presentation.

DCI will take primary responsibility for managing an "Investment Roundtable" on behalf of the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office. We recommend the event be structured in the following format:

- A mid-morning seminar that would include two parts: 1) a focused presentation by a top public-sector representative and a senior executive from a North American company that has already invested in Taiwan; 2) a series of smaller "roundtable discussions" at individual tables;
- An informal reception/luncheon would follow the seminar and permit one-on-one discussions between your organization and prospective investors;

In all, we would anticipate attendance by 40-50 guests – a mixture of senior executives from targeted companies and location advisors/site selection consultants. More specifically, we will:

- Work with you and your team to conceive an overall framework for the actual seminar including suggested topics and speakers.
- Select a venue for the luncheon seminar.
- Develop an invitation list for the event drawn from already-identified target companies (a primary focus), DCI's "house list" of site selection advisors and a broader list of 500+ suspects additional research.
- Design a personalized letter/e-mail invitation to this list.
- Issue and follow-up on the invitation.
- Conduct telephone confirmations the day before the event.
- Have 2-3 DCI Staff Members attend the actual event and manage the name-tag/check-in process.
- Participate in a post-event debriefing and provide recommendations for future seminars.
- Packaging of the handouts/materials, presentation of materials.

OBJECTIVE: Direct highly successful investment roundtable in New York City.

E. Beyond the Investment Seminar: Bringing Taiwan "Face-to-Face" with Prospective Investors and Their Advisors

Following the investment seminar, we will seek to arrange a series of one-on-one appointments for Mr. Ni and Mr. Tseng throughout the four-state region. Some of these appointments would be arranged with companies/advisors who had attended the investment seminar; some will be with those unable to attend the seminar but exhibiting strong interest in Taiwan.

While it is difficult to predict a specific number of meetings delivered, we would target the scheduling of 8-10 meetings over the course of the contract period. A detailed briefing document would be provided in advance of each meeting.

OBJECTIVE: Arrange and schedule 8-10 face-to-face meetings with qualified companies and/or their advisors.

III. PRELIMINARY TIMELINE AND BUDGET

We have designed this program as a five-month effort to begin in August of 2004 and continue through December 31, 2004.

By Monday September 20th, 2004 DCI will have completed the research of the 250 target companies. Ninety percent of these companies should be from the Industrial sector. The companies will be loaded into a database that will be given to TECRO.

DCI will target at least 40-50 attendees who show interest to invest in Taiwan for the seminar. TECRO will prioritize (but not limit) the 250 target companies according to interest by industry sector.

By the end of this contract DCI will attempt to schedule 8+ face to face meetings with executives interested in meeting with TECRO secretaries.

TECRO and DCI will share the responsibilities in choosing the menu for the luncheon and the seminar décor.

The attached budget is divided into two elements: professional fees and projected out-of-pocket expenses. The latter item involves consideration but represents our current estimates based on recent experience. The Taipei Economic & Cultural Representative Office in the United States would pay only for actual expenses; DCI does not charge markup on any expense items.

A professional fee of $5,500 per month will be billed at the beginning of each month. Expenses will be billed as they occur with documentation; client payment is requested within 15 days of billing. Per your request, we have budgeted DCI management of a second investment seminar as an option.

Ordinary DCI expenses (telephone, photocopying, overnight packages and other similar costs) will be billed separately with appropriate documentation. Whittaker Associates fees will be billed on a monthly basis based upon prospect delivery. Per your request, we have also estimated catering/luncheon costs for the proposed investment seminars.

This agreement may be canceled by either party, DCI or the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office, for any reason upon 30 days written notice to the other.

A proposed program budget and a projected, month-by-month billing is provided on the following pages:

NOTES:

1) Individual Receipts will be submitted by the following venders:

Total Invoice from DCI	$28,750.00
Total Invoice from Whittaker Associates	$15,525.00
Total Invoice from a Hotel (estimate)	$ 8,750.00

2) No vendor shall be paid in excess of the projected costs as stated in Note 1

3) All 250 Companies will have a HQ in the 4-state region (New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania.

4) Seminar will be held during the term of this contract regardless of whether the Minister is in attendance or not.

5) Seminar will be held in New York City. Alternatively, at the request of The Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office another locale will be considered in one of the above listed states. However, the desired attendance would almost certainly be less than that of a seminar in New York City, and likely far fewer than the desired 40 to 50 attendees projected for a New York City event.

6) TECRO reserves the right to choose the vendor for the round table luncheon.

7. DCI should present progress report of the project by the end of each month within the time frame of this contract.

IV. DCI CAPABILITIES

We hope at this point you've gathered that we not only want to work with and for you, but we have both the expertise and enthusiasm to make the proposed prospect development program a great success for your organization. We believe the following points to be particularly germane:

- DCI is the only firm in the world to specialize exclusively in economic development marketing.

- Since 1960, we have worked with over 300 economic development groups including a broad range of international economic development groups. A complete list of current clients is provided in Appendix B. A list of all 300+ economic development organizations served over the past 44 years is available on our website at www.dc-intl.com.

- We specialize in bringing our clients face-to-face with prospective investors. Teaming with research specialist agency, Whittaker Associates, we jointly developed a "Prospect Development/Qualification" (PDQ) Program to meet the needs of the economic development industry. DCI has successfully conducted direct prospecting work for a broad range of international entities including the Government of Spain, Flanders Foreign Investment Office, Costa Rican Investment Board; Geneva Department De L'Economie Publique; New Town of Glenrothes, Scotland; Sophia Antipolis Industrial Park, France; Government of South Australia; and the Botswana Economic Development Corporation.

- Finally, DCI has nurtured and maintains superb relationships with the increasingly important audience of location advisors. These links can be most valuable to Taiwan.

V. WHITTAKER ASSOCIATES CAPABILITIES

At Whittaker Associates, Inc. our primary purpose is to help you effectively and efficiently utilize information technology to enhance your ability to better serve your clients. By managing information through advanced computer technology, we will work with you to develop a customized information system that will meet your current and projected needs.

Our philosophy is that information technology can enable your organization to remain competitive in our global economy. We are committed to helping you learn how to apply this technology so you can continue to be an active participant in today's Information Age.

Whittaker Associates, Inc. will work closely with you to design an information system that best meets your needs and objectives. For some clients we provide one-on-one coaching and consultation. For others, we facilitate group-training programs and prepare customized reports. Our approaches are as unique as each of our clients.

Since 1981, Whittaker Associates, Inc. has specialized in providing information technology based assistance to economic development organizations throughout the country. We offer you the following services.

* Creation of targeted prospecting systems

* Creation of specialized company specific databases

* Computer training and consultation

* Targeted marketing assistance

* Industry studies

* Firm specific reports

VI. THE NEXT STEP

We are obviously delighted by the favorable response to our earlier proposal. All of us at DCI/Whittaker Associates look forward to the possibility of working with you on this important program.

Sincerely,

Andy Levine
