CONTRACT FOR PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

April 29, 2009

The Honorable Dr. Gazi Shbaikat
Minister of Labor
Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan
Amman, Jordan

2009 MAY 15 PM 4:47
CRM/CES/REGISTRATION UNIT

Excellency,

On behalf of Sorini, Samet & Associates LLC (SS&A), I am pleased to provide this contract to the Ministry of Labor of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan for consulting support on issues involving labor compliance in the apparel industry.

HASHEMITE KINGDOM OF JORDAN AND LABOR COMPLIANCE

BACKGROUND

- Under a previous contract (September 2007- April 2008) between the Ministry of Labor, and Sorini, Samet & Associates LLC, SS&A professionals drafted, in close cooperation with the Ministry of Labor, the document, Labour Administration and Compliance in Jordan: A Multi-Stakeholder Collaboration. Released in February 2008, it describes the programs and initiatives developed and implemented by the Government of Jordan to address labor concerns identified by the Government.

- In conjunction with the report, SS&A professionals prepared other materials for the public information campaign to address repeated negative media characterizations of Jordan's labor compliance framework triggered by the reporting of the National Labor Committee ("NLC").

- The report was released during Minister Bassem Khalil Al-Salem's visit to the United States in February 2008. SS&A professionals assisted with the scheduling of the visit and participated in a number of meetings with key U.S. buyers, editorial boards, and members of the think tank and NGO community.

- During the period of the initial contract, SS&A also provided significant support to the Ministry of Labor and the Jordanian Embassy on crisis management activities related to new factory allegations by the NLC and also a difficult situation involving workers from Vietnam, which required support related to media, U.S. buyers, and the U.S. Congress.

ELEMENTS OF ADDITIONAL WORK

Considerations:

- With increased Democratic majorities in the U.S. Congress and an Obama Administration, new legislation is likely to be brought before the Congress linking market access with labor standards compliance. It is important that Jordan be seen as a positive example of progress, and not a rationale for such legislation.
- Jordan may face a request by the Obama Administration to modify the bilateral free trade agreement to make it consistent with a new paradigm on labor and environmental standards, and Jordan will want to make sure that any such proposal takes place in a context in which the positive progress made by Jordan with regard to compliance and trafficking concerns is clearly recognized.
- Given the commitment of the Obama Administration to further enhance the labor requirements in U.S. trade agreements and the strong interest in Congress on the same issue, U.S. apparel buyers will be very interested and sensitive to the labor compliance profile of Jordan and it remains important to keep them steadily updated about the progress being made in the sector. Likewise, in order to avoid the media recycling prior stories about labor compliance problems in Jordan in future stories related to trade and labor initiatives, it is best to also preemptively provide the media with information on the substantial and on-going progress made in Jordan.

In light of the above, it will be important to have a robust outreach strategy with key officials in the Executive Branch and members and staff in the Congress, and SS&A will provide support in developing and implementing such strategy and in drafting the necessary materials to effectively explain the record of positive developments in Jordan.

Proposed work:

Under this contract work would continue in close coordination and collaboration with the Ministry of Labor in Amman and the Jordanian Embassy in Washington D.C. The key elements that would be undertaken would include the following:

- Prepare an outreach and engagement strategy for the Obama Administration and the U.S. Congress. Trade was a controversial issue in the recent U.S. election campaign, and labor standards are at the heart of this controversy.

- Prepare and have available for release in the third quarter of 2009 an updated report on labor compliance implementation in Jordan. This report would address progress made related to the initiatives cited in the initial report, such as the ILO Better Work Jordan Project, and also efforts to address trafficking issues more broadly which have received increased attention as a result of the report by the U.S. State Department and a lawsuit filed in U.S. courts involving workers allegedly trafficked through Jordan into Iraq.

- Undertake a schedule of outreach activities with U.S. buyers to communicate information on the progress made in addressing labor compliance issues in the apparel sector. This will involve close coordination with Jordanian officials and the planning of appropriate events to provide the information. There is currently uncertainty in the U.S. buying community about the status of the initiatives, what factories will actually participate in the ILO Better Work program, and what will be done with regard to the Golden List.

- SS&A will work with Jordanian officials on developing a rollout event for the ILO's Better Work Jordan Project – which although now underway is not understood by U.S. buyers, U.S. media and congressional and executive branch officials. The project provides an opportunity to build further momentum and to continue to inform relevant stakeholders on the positive steps taken by Jordan. Buyers and media should be invited to an event that will educate people on the progress made with regard to the ILO project.

- SS&A would also provide written input and recommendations for further modifications to the existing Roadmap to help in assuring it will be seen as a consistent and coherent plan to improve labor standards in the apparel sector.

- Backstop support to the Embassy and Ministry in dealing with Congressional developments, including the presentation of written materials.

- Outreach with NGOs, unions, and other labor advocacy groups concerned about the Jordan situation to also engage and further inform them on positive developments in Jordan.

Media Elements:

- Beyond developing written materials, including updating the implementation (roadmap) plan, SS&A will work with the Embassy, Ministry of Labor and other

Jordanian government agencies in distributing the message about progress on labor standards and trafficking concerns in Jordan to the media.

- SS&A established quality relationships with dozens of trade and mainstream media journalists and made contact and shared Ministry of Labor information with several hundred more on the labor issue. It is important these relationships continue to be updated and cultivated to ensure fair treatment for Jordan in future media coverage.

- Meetings with the editorial boards of the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal were positive. SS&A would recommend a broader editorial board schedule that includes outreach in Washington-D.C., Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, and other selected cities.

- With regard to television, we will assist the Ministry of Labor and the Embassy to engage with regard to any potential stories about Jordan, and assisting with rapid response and media management should such stories develop again.

Regular Labor Specific Updates (Newsletter)

- In an effort to keep the momentum that has been built with the release of the report SS&A recommends establishing a regular brief update to be distributed electronically. This newsletter would go to interested members of the media, the buyer community, and interested Capitol Hill offices. Published quarterly, the newsletter would draw on the report format, current events, and positive developments to keep readers informed and keep awareness of Jordan and its progress high.

TIMELINE, DELIVERABLES AND BUDGET

The following is a proposed timeline and budget for the activities that SS&A would perform under the work plan described above.

Phase I:

Preparation of Materials for Outreach Strategy, including update report for release in July 2009.

Initial Targeted Outreach to Congressional Offices, Administration officials, U.S. apparel buyers, U.S. labor unions, human rights NGOs, and think tanks to provide update report on progress in Jordan on issues of concern.

May 1 – July 31: $45,000
Printing of Materials: $10,000 (estimated)

Phase II:

Broader Outreach Meetings with Congress, new Administration, U.S. apparel buyers and business associations, and U.S. labor unions and human rights NGOs, on basis of progress report completed and to be released July 2009. This would include initiating media component described above and helping to schedule meetings for Ambassador and potentially Cabinet members from Jordan – including the Minister of Labor. During this period the electronic monthly newsletter would be developed and initiated.

August 1 – October 31: $45,000
Printing of Materials: $2,500 (estimated)
Potential Travel Costs for Media Support: $7,500 (estimated)

Phase III:

Follow-up with additional outreach meetings with all targeted constituencies and work on any necessary update of message materials.

November 1 – January 31, 2010: $30,000
Potential Travel Costs for Media Support: $5,000 (estimated)

Work after Phase III would be based upon a joint assessment of what might be necessary.

work. SS&A will not be held responsible for non-delivery or non-timely delivery of work when this is due to actions or lack thereof by the Ministry of Labor.

5. This contract can be terminated by either party with thirty (30) days prior written notice. It can also be extended or revised by written agreement of the parties.
